Abstract	ENG The comparative study will aim to assess the perceptions, concerns, barriers and challenges LGBTQIA+ refugees and IDPs must endure when they reach the hosting country. The qualitative and participatory approach will allow the creation of a map to assess risk and protective factors for LGBTQIA+ mental well-being and functioning, as well as an assessment of the participant's skills of survival, resilience, and resistance. Moreover, structural forms of institutional violence undermining the refugees' agentic competencies will be analyzed.
