EURES SCOZIA	Scozia	5	NURSES	Join us in delivering remote and rural medicine at its best... NHS Shetland is the most northerly Health Service in the country and a unique setting in which to develop your career. We are, of course, a small organisation, with circa 650 staff looking after the health needs of some 23,000 people spread across 15 islands. However, what we lack in size, we more than make up for by way of the tight-knit, highly professional ethos that characterises every aspect of our operations. Our job – your job should you care to join us – is to provide healthcare services to, and strive to improve the overall health of, the population of this most delightful part of the British Isles. As well as the Gilbert Bain Hospital there are Local Community Services provided via GPs, AHPs and Community Nurses. All in all, you'll find a superb degree of professionalism allied to a practical, resolute approach to the challenges of providing healthcare in a remote island setting. We employ a wide range of different nursing staff in Shetland, including: • In the hospital - Accident & Emergency, Theatres, Medical Ward, Surgical Ward, Day Surgery, and Specialists in Infection Control, Renal, Diabetes, Oncology, Cardiology Stroke and Emergency Nurse Practitioners. • Children & Family Services – Midwives, Health Visitors and School Nurses. • In the local community – Community & District Nurses, Advanced Nurse Practitioners & Practice Nurses, Mental Health Nurses, and Specialists in Substance Misuse and Continence. This is a beautiful part of the world, with a satisfyingly different lifestyle from the metropolitan centres. Those who wish to experience a unique life-work balance thrive here. The diverse nature of Shetland's culture, the stunning scenery, the wildlife, even the local dialect, as well as the spread of different islands all make for particular professional and personal challenges. Shetland is a world where wildlife is truly wild, where otters and seals play in quiet coves, and the air is full of the sound of wild birds, crowding the jagged cliffs in huge and noisy colonies. There are regular sightings of Killer Whales and superb displays of rare sub-arctic flora. 20151222733	Francia	30	DATA SCIENTISTS	The role of the data scientist is to participate in the identification, implementation and growth of the it solutions. The data scientist is part analyst, part artist: comfortable working as a software engineer and a quantitative researcher; the Data Scientist is capable of staring at data and spotting trends, wanting to learn and bring change to an organization. The data scientist explores and examines data from multiple disparate sources and sifts through all incoming data with the goal of discovering a previously hidden insight, which in turn can provide a competitive advantage or address a pressing business problem. The data scientist does not simply collect and report on data, but also looks at it from many angles, determines what it means, then recommends ways to apply the data. The data scientist is inquisitive: exploring, asking questions, doing 'what if' analyses, questioning existing assumptions and processes. Armed with data and analytical results, the data scientist then communicates informed conclusions and recommendations across an organization's leadership structure. Skills - Understand the business of the customer and understand the main performance indicators that can be leveraged to improve activity or decrease costs - Work closely with customer facing teams and the customers to identify and answer relevant clients questions using appropriate statistical techniques on available data. - Drive the collection of new data, both internal and external, and ensure its accuracy. Drive the refinement of existing data sources. - Communicate findings to all relevant internal and external contributors in a way that is accessible to each audience. Experience with Python, R, Matlab, Scala with scoobi, Hadoop/Impala, tableau or equivalent, Unix is a plus Please send your CV in English to: eures@afolmet.	31/12/2018	eures@afolmet.it

If you want to work with the latest technologies in an agile team together with inspiring colleagues - then you should join us! About the Position Our technical skills are not limited to develop software, we also take care of release work and the complete continuous integration. Our team meets regularly both to share information and skills but also to have some fun on the way. We are used to work in an agile environment with methods such as Scrum or SAFe. For this position you need to have at least two years' experience as developer within C/C++ in embedded systems, as well as Linux or an equivalent RTOS. We are confident that you have a bachelor's degree in Data Science, or similar. It is demanded that you understand the importance of documentation, accurate requirements management and a great collaboration within the team. We would like to know more about your experience from working in agile environments and how you would utilize your competence and share knowledge within a new company. Our main customers are from the automotive industry, Ericsson and other industries. Since it is an exciting time within software development we are currently examining how we as embedded software designers can co-work with colleagues within AR/VR, Cloud services and IoT. This can lead to new exciting opportunities that we hope you want to be part of! More About Cybercom At Cybercom we are Makers of Tomorrow. By learning through experience, we know what really matters and we apply our skills and creative use of technology to every client and situation to create truly unique solutions for the future. Our areas of expertise lie within Digitalization, IoT, Cloud and Secure - where do you find yourself in the future? Be a part of something great. What makes working at Cybercom unique is the workplace culture. We are truly passionate about what we do, our clients trust us to be their partners in finding their way in the landscape of digitization. We are proud of being a truly diverse workplace - our employees represents over 40 countries and we strive to bring more women in the tech-world. Meritocracy rules at Cybercom - we want to hire people who loves their job and who want to work at their best of their abilities. Your gender, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, age, disability, or ethnicity does not matter to us in any other way than that "more is more". Diversity enriches us and makes us perform better. As a consultant you must love the concept of "constant change". Due to the nature of consulting you will most likely be working with many clients, technologies and problems. You will experiencing that you will be challenged on a consistent basis. Application Apply for this position through our website https://swedishweek2018.eventbrite.it and send CV to eures@afolmet.it	31/10/2018	https://swedishweek2018.eventbrite.it and send CV to eures@afolmet.it

EURES Svezia Ref. SW09/2018	Svezia	1	Senior Advisor Regulatory Affairs Ref. SW09/2018	Senior Advisor Regulatory Affairs SDS works with drug development in the pre-approval phase (from the nonclinical phase to phase III). Our clients have a mix of NCE projects and projects with development of new formulations and/or new areas of use for established drug substances. In addition to regulatory experts, SDS has senior experts in a range of disciplines including CMC, DMPK, Toxicology, Clinical Pharmacology, Clinical Development and Biostatistics. Many clients use several disciplines from SDS which means that there is often an opportunity to work in teams with SDS colleagues. Even if you are the only consultant from SDS working with a particular client, you always have the possibility to use SDS colleagues as sounding boards. A Senior Advisor Regulatory Affairs at SDS helps our clients to define the overall regulatory strategy for their drug development projects from early phase (nonclinical) to MAA. This includes determining the product's classification (regulatory framework), legal basis and choice of procedure as well as leading interactions with regulatory authorities at national level (major countries across Europe), EMA and FDA as well as applications for ODD and PIP. Other tasks include leading responses to authority questions in connection with CTAs/INDs, writing drug development plans (in cooperation with other disciplines as needed), looking into suitable reference products, MAA dossier planning etc. There are today four Senior Regulatory Advisors in SDS and we often discuss complex project among us and divide projects/tasks according to experience and competence. This means that there will be flexibility with regards to which projects are allocated to whom depending on background and experience.
